[Name] Greetings, Judge

My name is Ray Johnson, and I am the victim in a rape case called People vs. Ray Johnson. The prosecutor in this case has demanded that I hand up all of my records. He is threatening to arrest me if I do not obey.

I am willing to allow relevant sections of my diary to be used as evidence in this case. The majority of my journal, however, is unconnected to this case's events. The majority of my journal, in actuality, dated from three years prior to the rape.

I understand that I have a legal right to privacy. I beg you to stand up for my rights. If I am required to provide over my whole diary to the prosecutor, the prosecutor must likewise hand it over to the defence.

After rapping me, the defendant should be permitted to trample through my most intimate thoughts in my notebook and then look for evidence to use against me.

Please protect my personal information and privacy. I'm ready to hand over my journal to you so you may assess which sections are required as evidence and, if necessary, issue a protective order on the sections that aren't.

Thank you for taking the time to read this and for taking the time to consider my request.
